

Fall Term of Court of Common Pleas.

The fall term of the Court of Common Pleas convened Monday morning, Judge Memminger presiding. Up to this time the court has been engaged with only two cases.

Monday morning the first case taken up was the suit of Mr. J. E. Rawls of Saluda county against Mr. J. H. Bouknight for alleged damages in the sum of $5,000 for detaining him under suspicion of entering his store. A verdict was found for Mr. Bouknight who was represented by Sheppard Brothers and Mr. J. Wm. Thurmond. The plaintiff was represented by Mr. E. H. Folk, Mr. S. McG. Simkins and Crouch and Ramage of Saluda.

The second case called was that of Mrs. Minnie L. Feagan, administratrix, against the Southern railroad for damages in the sum of $3,000 for killing her nephew at Trenton. At the hour of our going to press on Wednesday the court is engaged with this case. The plaintiff is represented by Mr. S. McG. Simkins and the defendant by Mr. N. G. Evans.

There will be no court next week. The jurors who were drawn for the second week of civil court will not have to report Monday.

Frances Willard Day at the Graded and High School.

The following program will be enjoyed by all who attend the Temperance Daay exercises at the High School on Friday. The program will begin at 11:30 a. m.

Immediately after the exercises lunch will be served the faculty and all the students in classes.

The public is invited to the exercises. Each grade will take part, beginning with the fifth, the lower grades having been excused on account of the splendid work they did in the fairy play in the Opera House Monday evening.

An acoustic will be given by the pupils in the fifth grade spelling the name of Frances Willard.

Short stories by the following students on the different phases of the life of Frances Willard will be told: June Nicholson, Elizabeth Johnson, Lucy Scurry, Frances Louise Townsend, Margaret Strom.

Katherine Stewart of the seventh grade will give the poem "A Stainless Banner."

The eighth grade will give the South Carolina emblem, and the salute to the flag.

In the tenth grade Mitchell Wells will give an oration, an address from Miss Anna Gordon to the teachers of the United States, and Dabney Talbert will give the poem about Frances Willard, "How Still She Stands."

Home Again.

Edgefield has almost ceased to have sensations, that is we have had so many experiences that it has become more difficult to stir the public, but when any of the former boys come home again and show love and appreciation for their native heath, there is commotion. This was the condition of affairs on Monday and Tuesday in our town when Frank Fair, John Boykin and Sherrard Kennedy came over from their splendid homes in Atlanta, distinguished citizens of that great city, in a handsome automobile belonging to Mr. Fair and had a good time in our town with the friends and companions of their youth. These sons of Edgefield had been planning several years to come over together and enjoy such an occasion, and the dream really came true.

All the old and middle aged inhabitants of Edgefield knew these absent boys when they were young and even infants. Mr. Kennedy was the brother of Professor Robert Kennedy who taught the Edgefield school successfully about 1889. He was the small brother who left here a barefoot boy carrying with him memories which he returned to enjoy. He said he had never, before this visit, walked on the Edgefield school grounds with shoes on, and he felt like reverting to the barefoot days. He is now the cashier of the largest bank in the South, the First National Bank of Atlanta, and highly esteemed for his integrity, and no one to see him would believe from his youthful appearance that he is married and has children almost grown-up.

John Boykin spent all his childhood days here, and talked about the first school he ever attended taught by Miss Mollie Gwaltney, in the office which stood in the yard of the home now occupied by Mr. Orlando Sheppard. Only very small boys were allowed to attend this school and girls and young ladies. Rev. W. T. Hundley taught then in the old Academy. The Boykin family moved to Mt. Carmel when he was young, and from there he went to Atlanta, studying law and becoming a candidate for the office of solicitor general of Fulton county. He has been elected two terms, the last time in September, receiving the largest number of votes of any candidate for any office in that county in which Atlanta is situated.

Mr. Fair left Edgefield more recently than the others is still known and loved as Frank. He went to school in the Academy too, and says it is a sacrilege to have torn it down. He has made good as everyone knew he would, and has a lovely home and a wife and dear little girl. Edgefield friends have visited his hospitable home in Atlanta and partaken of his generous hospitality.

On Monday evening Miss Kellah Fair entertained some friends of yore in honor of her guests, Miss Virginia Addison and J. L. Addison, Mrs. P. M. Feltham, Mrs. A. E. Padgett, Mrs. Mamie N. Tillman, Mr. and Mrs. Bettis Cantelou, Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Blalock, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cantelou and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mims.

Mrs. P. P. Blalock, Jr., entertained them at dinner on Tuesday and Miss Virginia Addison Tuesday evening at tea.

Ladies are often the recipients of such social attentions, but men are not often so honored.

Edgefield is proud of her sons, and is glad of their success, and welcomes them with open arms.

Women go to the Polls.

The women of South Carolina will have their first opportunity to vote on November the second. Don't let that opportunity go by without casting your ballot. Go to the polls and vote. Some may say that your vote will not count this time so there's no use of your voting. Don't listen, you are a qualified voter and whether it makes any difference in the general election count or not you do your duty.

The county chairman of the League of Women Voters will lapoint a woman at each voting precinct to be at the boxes with her committee, so that any woman who may feel a hesitancy in going where there are only men may know there will be a committee of women present. Miss Marie B. Ames in her first lesson on citizenship has this to say of election day: On election day the actual process of electing the electors differs according to states, but in any event whatever the method, the votes do not elect the president and vice-president but merely the electors. In the State of Iowa the names of the electors appear on the primary ballot but do not appear on the ballots on election day. The names of the presidential candidates do, but in voting for the names, the voters of that state simply designate which set of electors they wish chosen. If a majority of voters vote for the democratic candidates then the democratic electors are chosen, or vice versa. In other states the names of the electors under the party heading appear and are voted for accordingly, while in still other states the names of both candidates and electors appear, although the votes are, of course, given only to the electors.

Thus it will be seen that the party able to command the greatest number of votes in each state received the whole electoral vote of that state. In a few instances a state has divided its electoral vote. Naturally if the voter wants a democratic president she will vote for the democratic electors.

All women who are duly registered must take their registration certificate with them. They will not be required to have poll tax receipts, as they have not yet been subject to this tax, but they must take the registration certificate.

Make your vote count!!!

The parliamentary classes advertised in last week's issue, to have been conducted by Mrs. Charles Shawhan of Mobile have been deferred to a later date. Mrs. Shawhan finds it impossible to fit our date with that immediately preceding and following on account of our poor railroad facilities.

The South Carolina League of Women Voters is an organization of women who wish not merely to vote but to use their votes to the best advantage.

Any woman interested in seeing her vote count for the public good may be a member.

The organization has two purposes, to foster education in citizenship and to support improved legislation.

Do you like the platform? You will be given an opportunity shortly to become a member of this organization.

WHITE'S Annual Harvest Sale Nov. 1st-6th, 1920

This sale is always the Big event of our Fall Sale program and eagerly looked forward to by thousands of our customers.

Great economies are always offered, but this year, due to fortunate purchases from jobbers who felt they were overloaded, we are enabled to quote such prices as will easily cause one to think they are again living, "Before the War."

In those departments where the wholesale markets are still "stiff" we have taken hundreds of articles from our regular stocks and marked them at drastic reductions for this annual event.

Points to recall are: If you want advance copy of articles reduced drop us a card, railroad fares refunded to an amount of 5 per cent of your purchases, freight prepaid to 200 miles on all purchases $5.00 or over, groceries excepted, home equipment can be purchased on easy terms through our Club Plan, orders will be promptly filled through the mails.

A Merry Birthday Party.

James Byrnes Ouzts

At Home

Friday, October the twenty-second
From four to six

1910

Quite a large number of boys and girls accepted the above invitations, spending a merry afternoon with the littel host at his home on Jeter street.

Delicious fruit punch was dispensed lavishly all during the afternoon, refreshing the youngsters for their many merry games.

Little Miss Mary Thurmond captured the pocket book given for good guessing in the peanut contest.

After the games, the happy children were invited into the dining room where a pretty pink color scheme was carried out in all the dainty details of flowers, shaded candles and graceful garlands from the chandelier to the prettily appointed tea table, which was centered with the big birthday cake.

In cutting the cake Miss Margaret Lyon got the ring, Miss Marylily Byrd, the thimble, Miss Marjorie Gray the dime and Miss Felicia Mims the penny.

Strawberry cream and cake with pink mints and home made cream candy was served.

All too soon twilight came and the little guests reluctantly departed, leaving, besides their heartfelt good wishes for the little host, many pretty gifts as a testimony of love and friendship.

Edgefield Opens Wide the Door for Visitors.

Among the many pleasures planned for Messrs. John Boykin, Frank Fair and Sherrard Kennedy were two beautiful parties Tuesday.

Mrs. P. P. Blalock, Jr., entertained at a lovely midday luncheon, each delicious course being a compliment to this gracious young hostess.

Miss Virginia Addison entertained the party that evening with a number of special friends of the honor guests. A bountiful Southern supper was served in courses to the guests, who were seated at the prettily appointed tables in the dining room.

The early school days were lived over in games and song completing a visit of very unusual joy in old Edgefield.

VARIETY STORE
"SAME GOODS FOR LESS MONEY"

WANTED Cotton Seed

Why should you sell your cotton seed for less. I am in the market the year round for seed at full market prices.

Compare the prices you have sold at with prices I have paid this fall, and see if you have gotten full benefit for your wagon seed.

I paid as follows:

Sept. 1st, 17th inclusive, per bushel	50c.
Sept. 18, Oct. 9 inclusive, per bushel	60c.
Oct. 9th	55½c.
Oct. 11th, 13th inclusive	51c.
Oct. 14th, 26th inclusive	45c.

If you have sold for less than the above prices at dates mentioned, then you have lost money.

I have as good a mill connection as any seed buyer. If you have a car of seed to offer or special wagon lots, see me before selling. Can handle your car of seed to shipped from any point.
